Media Literacy Competences pathway

The MIL Competences Pathway constitutes a newly established skill set for the development of seniors' and adult educators' skills. It provides a comprehensive framework for developing seniors' media and information skills, addressing the key areas identified in the research.

Fostering Collaboration for Autism Awareness

In November, Balkan Bridge hosted the second international activity of the G.I.A.F.A. project in Sofia, Bulgaria, continuing a series of impactful events aimed at deepening understanding of autism spectrum disorder. The first activity, held in Novi Pazar, Serbia, was hosted by the International University of Novi Pazar, where participants explored various aspects of autism and visited organizations dedicated to supporting individuals with special needs. Building on the knowledge gained during the first event, the second activity in Sofia brought together participants from four countries and provided valuable training on digital tools designed to assist people with autism.

Closing up the UpSenior project

This Erasmus+ initiative brought together organizations from Greece, Italy, and Bulgaria to empower senior citizens with essential financial literacy skills.

Here is what we have achieved in the past 16 months:

- Development of a comprehensive framework to assess financial literacy skills.
- Provided an assessment tool that provides the opportunity to test your knowledge.
- Creation of engaging training materials tailored to the needs of seniors.
- Conduct successful pilot training sessions with real-world impact.
- Dissemination of project results and knowledge to a wider audience.

By equipping seniors with the tools and knowledge they need, we've helped them make informed financial decisions, protect their assets, and live with greater confidence.

Generation of indepth knowledge - report

The absence of information on energy literacy has an impact on the EU's efforts to combat energy poverty. Thus, through the comprehensive analysis among five partner countries, an in-depth report has been developed covering Austria, Bulgaria, Greece, Italy, and Lithuania. Our innovative approach will provide firsthand knowledge on the energy literacy of adults and households at risk of energy poverty.
